The FCC should insure the public interest is best served by making sure music played on commercial radio across America is played based on merit and not due to financial influence.