I would like for the FCC to eliminate these rules which are the non-duplication rule as well as the sydex-exclusivity rule. The reason that, I would like for these two rules to be scraped is because I think that consumers like myself should have the choice to choose what tv stations we want to watch whether there in our local designated market area or not. For example, I'm trying to get Comcast to carry the superstations which are, WWOR, WPIX, WSBK,KWGN, KTLA. My understanding is these channels show syndicated programming most of the time. If the FCC chooses not to eliminate these rules, then maybe a copyright fee could be charged for consumers like myself who would like to watch stations outside of their local DMA whether it be the superstations or other stations outside of the person's local broadcast area. The revenue collected from this fee could go back to the local broadcasters for loss of advertising revenue and or loss of viewers. The docket number for these rules would be 10-101.
