Radio stations need to play more than the same 10 songs over and over. New artists need to be able to get their music heard over the radio. That way there are more new artists heard and may become the next big thing. Music can make people happy, but when they don't play new music and repeat the same ten songs it gets boring and annoying.