I am concerned about the possible negative effect of blocking autodialed and autotexted communications in regards to emergency notification systems that use these methods to reach their audiences in urgent emergency situations. These are used by almost all K-12 schools as well as most colleges and universities.