I hope this is the right place for this. It's difficult to determine as there is only the briefest of descriptions of the item in question.

Anyways.

Don't.

I could rant on the harmful natures of monopolies or the absolutely filthy amount of lobbying cable companies have done to push this obvious power grab or the way this would stifle the freedoms of expression and commerce, but I won't.

I will, however, posit that ending net neutrality will weaken the United States as a whole by stifling emerging businesses. With the attitude of this legislation, we wouldn't have giants like Google, Apple or Facebook. I would be typing this after searching for this site on Mother Fucking AOL.

P.S. Dear government employee that has to sort through all of these comments, I'm sorry, but I had to add my voice to this.
