The fact that you even have to ask the American public why this shouldn't pass is an testament of how much corruption is polluting the government. Allowing Cable companies that have monopolized so much that they are asking for bribery to them for bandwidth speeds to be legalized is a crime that would in turn monopolize internet companies that could afford to pay, leaving their competition in the dust anchored to dial-up speeds. What's worse is that it won't effect any company that did pay as all that will keep filtering down to raised subscription prices for everything the people do on the internet.
