Chairman Wheeler,

I'm writing to urge you to restore broadband competition by fixing the broken market for high-capacity broadband lines. The FCC must address anti-competitive behavior in this market to reach its goal of delivering better, faster, cheaper broadband to all Americans. The future of our information economy depends on it.

Even-handed access to broadband has become a basic need for much of society and will become even more important as companies and resources move to an online profile only. Dave Mundt