

Georgia Tech Research Institute (GTRI) is a not for profit applied research group within the Georgia Institute of Technology. GTRI is a State of Georgia entity. The radar system covered in this application is being developed on an internally funded research program.