On December 12, 2008, BellSouth proposed to modify its Tariff F.C.C. No. 1. The proposed modification would address the Customer's obligations and the Telephone Company's role when a hazardous electrical environment existed at the Customer's location. The proposal would have obligated the Customer to obtain and install appropriate high-voltage protection equipment whenever services were provided at any Customer location that presented a hazardous electrical environment (i.e., any premises that included electrical facilities or equipment operating at voltages of 300V peak asymmetrical or greater). Transmittal 1162 is scheduled to become effective on December 27, 2008.

With this filing, BellSouth wishes to withdraw the tariff material filed under Transmittal 1162, without its becoming effective. BellSouth wishes to withdraw Transmittal 1162 in order to review issues identified in the proposed modification.
